Custom cabinetry has become increasingly popular as homeowners look for ways to make their home feel more like their own. Families can create their own perfectly styled cabinetry for the bath, bedroom, laundry room and any other room that begs for storage space.

In the bedroom, customized armoires and dressers provide generous storage space through built-ins, pull-outs and adjustable hanging spaces. A jewelry shelf is a simple way to keep earrings and necklaces from becoming tangled, and can be tucked away within an armoire. In the bedroom and family rooms, entertainment centers can be customized to conceal less-than-attractive cords and outlets, and can protect and hide the television screen.

Cabinetry in the bathroom can hide toiletry items that aren't meant to be on display and give the room a polished look. Even laundry baskets can be concealed by cabinetry to create extra space by reducing clutter.

"Customers want to efficiently utilize every inch of space in their home, and they want to do it with style," says George "Butch" Achey, president of Plain & Fancy Custom Cabinetry. "Custom cabinetry offers homeowners a solution, they can pick and choose door styles, wood species, even a customized color so that cabinetry not only serves its purpose, but also doubles as decoration for any room in the home."
